

AAMA & ASTM Window Testing

Leaky Building? Pacific Property Consultants understands buildings, and how water works its way through the various cladding systems, flashings and fenestration. When a building owner is experiencing problems with water intrusion, it pays to hire a professional who applies building science knowledge and physics to identify root causes so that the most economical repair can be achieved.

Hiring a window test firm is great; but what if the water intrusion is entering from the roof? Or a nearby penetration? Many window testing labs focus only on the window product and cannot accurately identify leaks from other sources. We take a "whole building" approach to solving complex water intrusion problems and have solved notorious leaks where other consultants have failed. That's why our clients keep referring us to others, and why you should trust the team at Pacific Property Consultants to deliver. When Experience Matters™, trust Pacific Property Consultants!
