

STATISTICAL SAMPLING PROTOCOLS

Pacific Property Consultants has implemented statistical sampling analysis in litigation and project evaluation cases when the need arises to obtain construction related information about an entire population, residential development or community by examining only a part of it. The benefit of creating a Statistical Sampling Protocol, among many, is that the sample result is objective and not subject to questions of bias. It also provides an estimate of the degree of risk that the sample may not be representative of the entire population.

